

Where did the idea come from? In a car, on a train, at a café outside of Cologne? No one quite remembers. But the thought is so stirring, it makes your heart race just considering the opportunity. So what do you do now?