

147

-continued

148

-continued

In the case of a hydroxyl-containing monomer, a corresponding monomer in which the hydroxyl group has been replaced by an acetal group which is susceptible to deprotection with acid, typically ethoxyethoxy, may be used, and polymerization be followed by deprotection with weak acid and water. Alternatively, the hydroxyl group may have been